Introducing the Incoming NAFCD Executive Director

CHICAGO - The North American Association of Floor Covering Distributors (NAFCD) has announced that after a comprehensive search process, they are excited to welcome Michael Wilbur as the incoming Executive Director.

Based in Washington D.C., Wilbur has spent his career bringing together professional communities through trade associations — most recently serving as the Vice President of Engagement for the Association for Uncrewed Vehicle Systems International (AUVSI). His leadership on recruitment, engagement, and strategic marketing helped grow the association and strengthen its position in the transportation industry as an effective advocate for its members.

Wilbur will begin serving as the NAFCD Executive Director effective July 1, at which point Kevin Gammonley will officially retire after over 10 years of steadfast management and leadership.

NAFCD represents a growing network of distributors and suppliers dedicated to pursuing the association's mission of developing and promoting the effectiveness of distribution processes to improve member profitability and growth. Through strategic partnerships, NAFCD provides members valuable market research, opportunities to connect with fellow industry leaders, and executive coaching/training.

When asked to comment, Gammonley shared, “I couldn't be more excited to introduce Michael to our community of floor covering distribution executives! It's been an honor to serve our members and help shepherd the association's growth for the past decade. We have an incredible team in place and I'm confident that our members will experience a seamless transition with the valuable networking and educational opportunities they have come to expect from NAFCD.”

Wilbur added, “I am excited to join this impressive community and leverage the broad expertise of our members. NAFCD has seen significant success throughout Kevin's tenure. I look forward to building on that legacy and working alongside the Board to deepen member engagement and further solidify NAFCD as the premier trade association for the floor covering distribution channel.”

Both Gammonley and Wilbur will attend the 2024 NAFCD Distributor Convention, October 22-24, 2024 in New Orleans, LA. Registration will open in early July, secure your spot to meet Michael and bid Kevin a happy retirement.
